LOS ANGELES

EXPLORE :

Where to start in LA? How about the heart of Hollywood. You can't visit LA and not see the walk of stars and all the iconic sights that make this city famous. Pick up a TMZ tour in front of the Chinese Theater if you're traveling without kids. With kids? A hop on/hop off Starline Tour will be a perfect fit. Wander the streets of the stars, take your picture on the steps of the Jimmy Kimmel theater, shop a little at the Hollywood and Highland center and visit the home of the Oscars. There is SO much to see, you can spend a few hours walking the blvd and exploring.

EAT :

Not too far from the walk of stars is the heart of 90210, Beverly Hills. If you're in the mood for a fancy dinner my favorite is Mastro's. The people watching is amazing (yes, I have seen the paparazzi!) and the food is even better. You will feel like you're rich and famous, and you'll be spending like you are too. ;) For a little more low key meal, check out Lemonade on Beverly Blvd in West Hollywood. Gourmet, cafeteria style grub with an amazing selection of desserts and lemonades. Try the Blood Orange Lemonade... you won't be disappointed!

STAY :

Whether you are traveling with kids, as a couple, or looking for the perfect spot for a girls weekend, the Le Montrose all suite hotel in West Hollywood will be the perfect spot. With a little extra room to spread out you will be totally comfortable. Tucked away on a residential street just a block or so off of the Sunset Strip, you have all the action at your fingertips, but when you're ready to retreat to your room you will have a quiet spot to rest. Don't miss the roof top pool that will make you feel like a movie star.
